15

Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are generally confusing and not understood. How is the tape formed? How is the material deposited and on what. This rises to enablement problems and applicants are requested to provide better claim language for examination.

Claims 18-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are generally confusing and not understood. How is method executed in manipulative steps? This rises to enablement problems and applicants are requested to provide better claim language for examination.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

18

Claims 30-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mizuguchi(4482447) alone.

The cited reference substantially teaches the claimed invention including an apparatus for making a particulate tape comprising a conductive carrier , means for applying electrical potential and an electrophoretic deposition bath containing counter electrodes- see fig 1; col 3, lines 19-57; col 7, lines 24-41; col 4, lines 22-56. Also, see entire reference. Concerning claim 31, it is submitted that it would have been obvious to provide additional baths in the cited reference to perform additional operations on the substrate and in the absence of unexpected results.
